orts to establish a regulatory framework. It had also sought views on reasonable traffic management practices to ensure wireless networks do not get choked or congested. Stakeholders are supposed to give counter comments by April 24. Content providers such as Netflix and carriers such as Bharti Airtel, Vodafone and Idea, backed the con-

... debate on net neutrality began in early 2015 after it was alleged that telcos were violating the principle by tying up with content providers and providing them toll-free access, also called zero-rating services. In February 2016, Trai barred discriminatory pricing of data services, including zero-rated plans such as Facebook's Free Basics and Airtel Zero, tackling net neutrality from a tariff perspective.

... we have indicated a common duct policy... We are going to do a proof of concept of this in Jharkhand," Trai chairman RS Sharma said at a CII event here. He said that the concept of common shared infrastructure had dispelled the myth that each service provider must individually own the entire backbone. — Our Bureau

Scorpio may Get a Makeover, to Hit Global Roads

Ketan.Thakkar
 @timesgroup.com

Mumbai: Mahindra & Mahindra's North American Technical Centre is working on a new-generation Scorpio that is expected to hit the roads in 2020. This time around, the goal is to take it global.

The fourth-generation Scorpio will be built on an enhanced architecture of the current version, with design and features to compete in developed markets. Mahindra's plan is to build an SUV and a pickup truck. Mahindra has long been talking about entering the US market with a Scorpio-based small pickup truck. The product under development is not only critical to international operations chief Arvind Mathew's aim to drive into the developed markets of North America and Europe, but also to hold on its own in the increasingly competitive domestic SUV market.

In an ET interview, Rajan Wadhwa, president of the automotive division at Mahindra, confirmed the firm had started work on the new-generation Scorpio.
